FROM THE MIRROR OF FUN. IT WEAKENS THE PHYSIQUE. NEW PLAY WITH A PURPOSE

Jack Dempsey's "Guying" Preclivities-

A careful canvass of athletic organizations elative to the tug-of-war discloses the fact the most intelligent and far-sighted of the athinjurious effects. They say that almost without exception a weakened physique follows. The exception is in the case of an unusually powernot exert himself to the utmost. Yet even be, men say they never permit one of their oarsmen o cogage in the tug-of-war. These brainy ath letes declare it is high time the tug-of-war question was brought up prominently by the athletic clubs and its evils pointed out and discussed. If says on the subject: "Gaze not with value long-this were done it would doubtless lead to the ings from Nebo's beights upon a kingdom tug-of-war being abolished.

Jack Demosey is an inveterate "guyer," in the language of the "perfesh. ' He will assume the austerity and carnestness of a clergyman while "swelling the head" of a greenhorn. The stranger is impressed by the Nonpareil's serious air, and nine times out of ten fails to " tumble uniess his wits are quickened by the audibl grins of chance bystanders who know Jack's penchant for "stringing" the confiding. By the way, Jack has a horse named Dan.

When questioned about Mike Daly's sweeping challenge published in The Evening World, Jack McAuliffe said: "These follows are merely trying to get a lot of free advertising. I am perfectly willing to meet them all for a $1,000 stake it a decent purse will also be presented to the winner. I should be delighted to have a go with Daly, Meyer or any light-weight in the world, only I want to make a little money to pay me for my trouble. I should think the California Athletic Club would be willing to ofter a purse, and I would accept a chance to fight these fellows there with alacrity."

McAulific and Billy Madden, by the way, are fairly launched as dramatic stars. This week they pummed each other scientifically on the stage of a Hoboken theatre, and next week they will delight lovers of clever boxing at Troy. Jack offers $50 to any light-weight who will stand befere him for four rounds without being knocked off his pins.

John J. Gorman, of the Star Athletic Club, and weighing only 126 pounds, deserves much credit for the brilliant way in which he won the light-weight medal last night at the Brighton Athletic Club tournament. He had to whip three men. And he trounced them well. The decision in the bantam class should have gene to James Rose, of the Allerton Athletic Club, instead of to J. Barnett, of the Atlantic. Rose had much the best of the four rounds. San Freuth, who won the feather-weight, and who is a superbross-country and long-distance runner on the cinder path, proved that his running has given him staying power that can be relied upon. Jack Skelly was, in the opinion of everybody, the better man of the two, but he lost on account of a foolish desire to "show off." He played with Freuth and the judges served him just right. Jacob Pitz, who won the middle-weight, is the young man who gave Pat Cahill, the present middle-weight champion, such a good light a short time ago. Pitz weighs but 140 pounds, but he can train into the light-weight class.

If determination and faithful work have anything to do with the making of a good crew, the Columbia College boys certainly should feel hopeful. The Columbias are on the Hariem during practice hours, rain or shine.

It is more than probable that J. Dougherty, of Philadelphia, and W. Clark, of Brooklyn, who fought such a game fight last Sunday, will be matched again shortly. The ending of the recent fight, it will be remembered, was very unsatisfactory, Clark winning on a foul.

The Acorn Athletic Association, of South Brooklyn, numbers among its members F. L. Lambrecht, the champion hammer thrower; John Taylor, the clever all-round athlete; F. Ol-en, the sculler; J. Nolan, light-weight boxer, and M. H. Cuming, "who can with ease lift the 75-pound dumb-bell," to use the language of an admirer. And, by the way, the sooner Mr. Cuming stops lifting heavy-weight dumb-bells the better it will be for his health. Lifting heavy weights is not the way to get strong. But it's a good way to injure oneself.

Charles Stow's new five-act "drams of to day." called "An Iron Creed," to be produced at the Fourteenth Street Theatre next Monday, will be brought forward with an excellent put as this purpose he ought to have an enduring Success. In "An Iron Creed" he intends to de the Hebrew dramatic justice, presenting him as him the hero of his play. The character of there is also scope for good work. Mr. Stow will also, in a mild, inoffensive way, teach a lesson to those who talk of redeeming the Promised Land and building up thereon a New Jernsalem. Here is what Mr. David Delmont con can never reach. This home of freedom is ur promised land, and here, the New Jerusalem, in which to erect a living temple, far more glorious and enduring than even that of colomon-one founded on the eternal rock of patriousm and good actions. Hither let it be our sim to gather all our suffering, persecuted our aim to gather all our suffering, persecuted brethren from out the house of the Old World's despotic bondage into a land flowing with the spiritual milk and honey of toleration, enlightened progress and universal protection." In the cast will be J. F. Brien, Herbert A. Carr. Henry Lynn, Stephen R. Barry, H. F. Stone, W. H. Collings, Atkins Laurence, Frances Livingston, Marie Cross, Kate Foley, Mary Wade Hamilton, Rachel Kinard, Louise Halton, Florence Bayard and Mabel Laurence.

Pluck, Mr. Berliner, pluck is the thing. Because "A Noble Son" began unfortunately, there is no reason why it should end in that way. Take your ginger like a little man, and if you want to be a manager, conduct yourself like one, and don't let those "business methods" before mentioned in these columns, vanish. This advice is absolutely gratis.

Behear/als of "La Mexicana," the new comic opera, to follow "Nadly" at the Casino, began yesterday.

The new play to be produced by Donnelly and Girard in Chicago was written by Paul Potter, and called "The Directory." All the characters in the play are named John Smith with the exception of Mr. Holling Stone and Fifine, a part to be played by Miss Alice Harrison. The John Smith complications are said to be very funny.

Miss Clara Morris will be in Brooklyn April 15, and then goes to the Grand Opera-House in this city, where her season will end. Mr. Frederic de Believille, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding, leaves immediately for Europe, going to Belgium to visit his father. De Believille says he is tired of playing villains. He wants to be something nice, and gain the sympathy of his audience.

Mr. Haildon Chambers, the writer of the successful play, "Captain Swift." has, it is said, been commissioned by Manager A. M. Palmer to write another play for the Madison Square Theatre. The success of "Captain Swift" has been remarkable.

Here is a queer letter, dated from Pittaburg, and received by W. J. Florence: W. J. Florence: Dear Sin: I met you on Fifth avenue yesterday and would have known you among a thousand, altho I have not seen you for Thirty-two or three years. Do you remember an engagement to play at the National Theatre on Chestnut street, Philadelphia, under the Management of Richard Quinlan, and when the National Theatre burned down he (Quinlan) advertised you to Play at the old chestnut 7 you came on and played one week, and on Saturday night he refused to pay you unless you sighned for another week. Well, of course you remember It, and I only ment to say that I was one of the Regulars on the Soupe force on that occasion, and, being but about fifteen years old, was prety well scared at the prospect of A fight between you, young Dick and the stage manager. Hoping this may revive some memories of old times, I remain one of your old admirers, &c.

Manager Hart, of the Theatre Comique, Harlem, smiled at the letter signed "Melodrama, published in Sunday's Wobld and 'scoring Mr. Hart for his utterance in The Eveniso Wobld and the Harlem as a theatrical locality." I meant to say," remarked Mr. Hart yesterday, "that no theatre could exist and be wholly dependent—wholly dependent, mindupon Harlem. Take this case, for instance: On Monday night Mrs. Potter's company opened at my house, with Mms. Ponisi, Harry Edwards and the old Wallack lights, to less than $300. This, with a Harlem population of 400,000, according to the writer of the letter. I should like to bet that the writer is one of those patrons of my house who come to the window and sek for a centre sisle seat on the first row of the 50-cent seats, in exchange for bill-board privilege. econd of the Spring Course of Magnifi cently Illustrated Lectures by Dr. Greene, the Eminent Specialist in Nerve Supt. Newell. and Chronic Diseases.

The famous specialist in the curs of nervous an ronic diseases. Dr. tirecue, of 35; West Fourteen rest, New York, delivered a lecture of the highest thoroughfare have worn anything from an arm cap to a plug hat, and strangers have remarked on their uncouth appearance.

But hereafter the man who smokes on the freat platform will have the pleasure of riding with a fashiomably hatted gentleman.

There was no objection by the men to this order, and only one driver failed to obtain the required head-gear at the apicinted hour. The driver of car No. 20 wore his old Scotch cap, but was laid off for one trip to give him time to obtain his Derby.

The Derbies are of all shapes, colors and conditions, however, form a second-hand sometimes to a $5 Durlag or Knox. But the effect is good, bevertheless, and the Broadway drivers present a better appearance than those on the other reads. est on "Mantal and Physical Culture," in Chickerin present day has irrotted so large a number of patients and effected curse in so great a proportion of cases as Dr. tireous. Reference to his vast library of case books shows that over a hundred thousand cases of chronic discusses have been under his professional care in the isst tem years. These figures are large, but ther are absolutely correct, as has been verified by us, and the immensity of the numbers of the sick treated and cured only proves the boundless popularity of Dr. Greene as a physician.

One of the doctor's departures from the standard rules of the medical fraternity is to give consultation and ad vice to all.

Absolutely Free of Chare

This is a saving of thousands of dollars to the poor to those upon whom the often excessive consulting foc-of physicians are a heavy burden. To many the feecharged by physicians, together with the cost of having prescriptions filled at druggists, are a serious drain, and it is not to be wondered at therefore, that the people crowd Dr. Greene's office daily, where they know that the most eminent and skilful advice can be had without charge. They know, furthermore, that the sole cost, if they decide to take his remedies and he cured of their diseases, is only for the necessary med table remedies, many of the curative powers of which he has himself discovered. His remedies are made from nature's true medicines, those strength-giving and health-restoring plants and herbs which a Divine Creator so wondrously provides for the relief and cur of our human ills.

The people know and understand that in adopting the use of Dr. Greene's vegetable medicines they are not filling their systems with poisonous and injurious drogs. They realize, from many trials at the hands of ordina physicians, that poisenous drugs do not and canceure, and that patients are often made worse by the jurious after-effects of such poisonous prescriptions. How different the people feel in regard to the larmles-vegetable remedies of Dr. Greene! They know from the very nature of these mild but efficacious medicines tha they can do no harm. They know that children a delicate invalids can take them without fear of t slightest injurious effects, and everybody is assured their wonderful power in curing disease. Indeed, the of these vegetable medicines in curing nervous and chronic affections are a source of wonder and amaze ment to those who, after having suffered from some disease for long months or years, are by their use restored to sound and perfect beatth. Thousands of su ferers who have tried treatment by poisonous drugs and fatled to get relief have, by using these remarkable vege table remedies, been easily and readily cured. Thou sands who, from repeated failures to be cured by poison ous drugs, had come almost to believe their cases it curable, have by the use of Dr. Greene's vegetable med iclass been restored to perfect and permanent health.

We know that these are strong statements to make and we should not make them had we not substantiate the facts and proved their truth in every particular Those who are sick or partial invalids from chronic dis eases have suffered too long from the failure of poiso ons drags to cure their cases, and when we know por tively and certainly that this treatment of Dr. Gree will in almost every case cure disease and restore health, it is but just and right to the people that the fact should be plainly stated in order that the many thousands who languish under the burden of disease may know where and by what means they can be cured.

We speak strongly, because we know whereof we speak. We have seen cases of chronic diseases fade and speak. We have seen cases of chronic diseases Isde and sink under treatment by poisonous drugs, and we have seen the same invalids under the use of Dr. Greene's regetable remedies gain rapidly until Perfect and Permanent Health was restored. We have seen the poor, who had spen their all in the vain effort to find health, cured by these

The discourage and disheartened can most certainly take hope, for their failure to be cured is because they have not ye adopted the right treatment. We would advise all out erers from any form of nervous or chronic disease t consult Dr. Greene without delay, and by placing then selves under his treatment they can be assured of a be-dreams, and, presently, feeling something touch him, he opened his eyes.

He saw two men in the cabin, and one of them had a revolver in his hand.

At first he thought he was still dreaming, then the reality came suddenly to him. He recognized the man with the revolver. Leaping up from his berth he exclaimed, "Ned Donovan."

The man with the revolver, a big, determined-looking fellow of about forty, with a bushy black beard and shaggy, overhanging eyebrows, nodded his head and laughed.

"Yes, Mr. Ellerton." he said, "it's me, right enough. You didn't expect to have the pleasure of my company, did you?"

In a moment the full meaning of the situation burst upon the detective. He had been trapped. He was alone and defenseless on the high seas with a man who two years ago trapped. He was alone and derenseless the high seas with a man who two years ago had sworn to be quits with him for "putting the high seas with a man who two years ago had sworn to be quits with him for "putting away" his pal.

This man. Ned Donovan, and another, Jack Frampton. "the pal" who had been "put away." were the heads of one of the most desperate gangs of burglars in the kingdom. Flerton had been the means of canduring Frampton, who had cluded the police for years. The detective had done the iob cleverly, and had run his man down through a former member of the gang, who betrayed him. Every attempt had been made by the gang to square the officer and get him to wink at Frampton's escape, but he sternly refused, and after a desperate struggle, in which three of his men were wounded, Ellerton had made a prisoner of the redoubtable Frampton and for the time being had broken up the whole band. Donovan was not in the job for which Frampton was taken, but it reached the detective's cars that he had sworn to be revenged on him for what he called "his treachery," and Donovan was a man who had an ugly reputation for keeping his threats.

One morning about a fortnight after he had taken the affair up, the young lady called upon him in a state of great agitation.

We have a clue," she exclaimed: "we must follow it up quickly. Can you leave with me for Havre to night?"

"Why for Havre?"

"My husband is there. The geutleman who wants to marry me has seen him there. Look at this telegram."

"It's a rum case," said Mr. Ellerton to his wife, as he explained to that good lady the reason he was quite the gentleman. But for a year no one about the place had seen him. The lady paid her bills, and was much respected. It was supposed that the husband had gone abroad to india, or America, or "some place like that."

"Up in London Mr. Flierton showed the photograph right and left, but could find no one who recognized it, nor could he anywhere find among the Morrisons who were discoverable through the "Post-Office Directory" any one to answer the description of the missing man.

this marriage, and on the day that I am free you shall have a thousand pounds."

It was a large sum to be promised and the detective opened his eyes.

"Do not be afraid," said the young lady, "that you will, if you fail, have done your work for nothing. Here is a fifty-pound note for your preliminary expenses. When that is gone you can have what more you require.

Ellerton took the note and looked at it mechanically. It was a perfectly good one. The detective took the telegram and read it. It was as follows: "Bolieve Morrison is here on board yecht with young English lady said to be his wife. Saw him being rowed from shore to-day." "Pray come with me," urged the agitated lady. "It is most important that you should collect the evidence there. I could not. Name your own terms, but come."
